THESE DIFFERENCES ARE MANIFEST AS ENGAGEMENT WITH:

- IDEAS AND POSSIBILITIES:
 - Strategists and Game Changers

MULTI-DIMENSIONAL LEADERSHIP

These famous people* have all been successful leading in ways that are uniquely them – they illustrate that leadership is multi-dimensional.

Your approach to Leadership will reflect the ways in which your proclivities interact with, and complement each other.

When it comes to maximising your own impact, remember that:

IMPACT = PROCLIVITIES + SKILL SET

Start by working with your highest scores in your GC Index profile, your potential strengths. These stronger proclivities will shape the way in which you can best make an impact.

Energy and impact will come from developing those key skills that make the most of your strongest proclivities. Please see pages 17-26 for more details and top tips. Your GCologist will help you to create your action plan.

MULTI-DIMENSIONAL LEADERSHIP

THE COMBINATION OF GC INDEX ROLE SCORES CAN CREATE SOME INTERESTING INSIGHTS.
WHAT IS THE OUTCOME OF YOUR TOP ROLE SCORES?

CONTEMPORARY LEADER

E.G. ANGELA MERKEL

At my best I can see clearly 'what' needs to be done. My core skills will be those of involving and including people in shaping the future, of engaging 'hearts and minds' in a way that leads to action.

VISIONARY LEADER

E.G. ELON MUSK

At my best I will bring creative ideas and possibilities to shaping future purpose and direction. I need to ensure that I have the skills to engage people with my ideas, especially those who will make them a reality, my Implementer and Polisher colleagues.

PRAGMATIC LEADER

E.G. ANA PATRICIA BOTÍN

At my best I will shape strategic plans and deliver them; I will get things done. I need to ensure that I involve others as much as possible in the thinking and the doing.

CHARISMATIC LEADER

E.G. RICHARD BRANSON

At my best I engage and enthuse others with creative ideas; new ways to think about possibilities and problems. I need to ensure that I have the skills to engage people with my ideas, especially those who will make them a reality, my Implementer and Polisher colleagues.

INVENTIVE LEADER

E.G. COCO CHANEL

At my best I turn creative ideas into reality. I can be obsessive. I get things done to a high standard. I get frustrated and impatient with people who 'don't get it'. I need to develop my approach to engaging and influencing people so that I can get them 'on board' with my ideas and expectations.

CREATIVE PROBLEM SOLVER

E.G. HENRY FORD

At my best I am a creative practical problem solver. I can often see better ways of doing things: processes and procedures. I need to work with Strategist colleagues to ensure that I focus on the things that matter most.

LEADER AS COACH

E.G. GANDHI

At my best, I get the best from others. I help people to focus upon delivering tangible outcomes to the best of their ability. To be effective, I need to ensure that I have good coaching skills.

INSPIRATIONAL LEADER

E.G. ANITA RODDICK

At my best I inspire people to give their very best. I can be demanding, so I need to ensure that I have the skills to clarify expectations, give feedback and resolve conflicts.

LEADER BY EXAMPLE

E.G. MARTIN LUTHER KING

At my best I have a reputation for getting things done to a high standard. I can be driven and impatient and task-focused. I need to ensure that I take time to listen and to make sure that people around me are 'on board' with my plans.

ASPIRATIONAL LEADER

E.G. EVA PERON

At my best, I can 'see the big picture' that's built upon a rigorous attention to detail; I like things to be properly 'thought through'. My core skill is that of helping others to trust my judgement.

YOUR PROFILE SCORES

HOW TO INTERPRET THEM

PROFILE SCORES

1-3

If you have a role profile score of 1 to 3 it suggests that you have little energy or inclination for this role. You may tend to avoid roles of this sort when you can.

As a consequence you may not have developed the requisite skills to perform well in these roles.

PROFILE SCORES

4-6

If you have a role profile score of 4 to 6 it suggests that you may have some energy and inclination for this role but not predominantly so.

If and when you take on these roles, success is likely to be more dependent upon discipline than the inherent satisfaction you may derive from the role. Other roles may engage you more readily or you may prefer to engage in different activities and roles at different times.

PROFILE SCORES

7-10

If you have a role profile score of 7 to 10 it suggests that your natural energy and inclination is to take on this role.

Your ability to be effective within the role will depend upon your experience and the degree to which you have had opportunities to develop role-related skills.

YOUR PROFILE SCORES

UNDERSTANDING YOUR PROFILE

HAVING THE GREATEST IMPACT IN YOUR ORGANISATION

Your highest score is for the role of Strategist.

Strategists are at their best when they are able to see, and clearly articulate, direction, change and action within a strategic context that takes account of commercial, operational and people needs. This may be within an organisation or in a consulting context with clients. This capability reflects the abilities to see and analyse patterns and trends in relevant data. Your score suggests that this is where you are likely to feel most engaged and energised at work.

Your score on Game Changer suggests that while you may be open to new ideas and possibilities you are not the most radical of thinkers. Moreover, you will evaluate ideas and possibilities in terms of their strategic and operational relevance.

Your profile also suggests that you will bring some energy and focus to delivery - Implementer. You are likely to have a pragmatic sense of 'good enough' and a drive to move on to the next objective.

When it comes to action what will matter for you is understanding the 'why' as well as the 'how'. You need to feel purposeful and that purpose fits into a clear 'bigger picture'.

Your Polisher score suggests that you will have little energy for perfecting and fine-tuning things.

Overall your profile suggests a powerful combination of strategic thinking with operational pragmatism and focus. You will be able to see action within a strategic context and shape strategy while being mindful of operational possibilities and constraints.

MAXIMISING YOUR STRENGTHS

APPROACH TO LEADERSHIP

You will lead by bringing direction, purpose and focus to action (Strategist).

Your Game Changer profile also suggests that you will also lead by being alert to new ideas and possibilities, bringing these to groups and teams but setting them within a strategic context.

Your Implementer profile suggests that you will also want to see ideas and possibilities converted into tangible outcomes although you may become bored with detailed and routine follow through.

Your Play Maker score suggests that it is not in your nature to 'stand back' and 'orchestrate' activity.

CREATIVITY AND INNOVATION

Your Game Changer score suggests an openness to possibilities although you are likely to evaluate ideas within a strategic context and through a lens of pragmatism.

MAXIMISING YOUR STRENGTHS

ENGAGING AND INFLUENCING

Your Strategist profile suggests an ability to articulate direction and focus that will be engaging for people. You will bring the 'why' to action and for many, this is an important part of meaningful endeavour.

Given your Strategist profile, you will also be able to help others to understand the context for action and to see how a range of activities 'fit together'.

At their very best Strategists can create compelling visions for the future.

Alertness to new ideas suggests that potential for you to introduce exciting possibilities and this will also support your ability to engage and influence.

Given your Play Maker profile, you might need to be mindful, when it matters, of engaging 'hearts' as well as minds.

GETTING THINGS DONE

By definition, Implementers get things done. They are outcome focussed and, at their best, will resist being a 'slave to the process'. Most of the time, you are likely to have a strong sense of 'good enough' and a drive to move on to the next objective.

This action-focused nature will mean that, at times, you become frustrated with over analysis and debate. Especially so when the strategic direction is clear.

MAXIMISING YOUR STRENGTHS

THRIVING NOT SURVIVING

You are likely to be at your best in organisations that value people who can shape strategy and deliver tangible objectives that support that strategy.

You will thrive then, in organisations that are outcome driven, not process driven. Organisations that will give you the freedom to get things done and not 'bog you down' in bureaucratic procedures.

You will thrive in 'achievement' cultures that recognise the importance of effective execution that is 'fit for purpose'.

THE POWER OF TEAMWORK

Your scores describe a 'strong' profile which may reflect an assertive nature. You are likely to trust your judgement when drawing upon your experience and expertise. You may need to be mindful of giving others the 'space' to contribute at times.

STRATEGISTS BEING THE BEST YOU CAN BE

AT THEIR BEST

STRATEGISTS SEE PATTERNS AND TRENDS IN EVENTS AND DATA.

This could be the chief marketing officer who sees patterns and trends in consumer behaviour, the chief financial officer who sees numerical patterns in a set of accounts or the physician who sees a pattern in a set of symptoms. It could be the individual who sees repeated behaviours within a dysfunctional family.

Strategists ask 'why', they look for links between events and data. They seek to 'fit together the pieces of the jigsaw', to 'join up the dots' in a way that helps them to see the 'bigger picture'. At their best they can bring a logical and analytical mind to making predictions about the future based upon the patterns of the past.

AS PEOPLE

Strategists like to make sense of their world. They tend to assume a causality between events that leads them to ask: 'how are these events related?' and to postulate: 'if this, then this.' This approach helps them to bring some structure to their world, to bring, at times, order from apparent chaos or arbitrariness. Making sense of things is often the basis for action; it will bring purpose, energy and focus to action.

AS LEADERS

Strategists will lead with possibilities that are a product of what has gone before. They will present their ideas in a way that engages others and mobilises action. They will bring optimism and energy to a fundamental human need to predict the future by mastering the present. Ideas will become strategies, strategies will become plans of action, and action will help people to feel potent.

STRATEGISTS

BEING THE BEST YOU CAN BE

TOP 5 TIPS

- #1: Hone your ability to see the 'big picture' by staying close to events in your industry: reading, networking, conferences. Bring your analytical skills to bear on what you learn in the process and look for those patterns, trends and synergies that predict the future.
- #2: Develop your commercial skills and business acumen: get into the habit of seeing strategic objectives within a commercial context.
- #3: Articulate your visions, views and arguments in a way that engages 'hearts' (good strategies bring certainty as well as excitement) and 'minds' (commercial possibilities).
- #4: Test your thinking where appropriate with Implementers, they can be good 'reality checkers'.
- #5: Bridge the gap between strategy and implementation by developing good planning skills.

GAME CHANGERS BEING THE BEST YOU CAN BE

AT THEIR BEST

GAME CHANGERS, AT THEIR BEST, SEE POSSIBILITIES THAT HAVE THE POTENTIAL TO CHANGE THE LANDSCAPE OF THEIR WORLD.

This could be a musician, artist, or writer whose work influences others for generations. It may be the designer or the inventor whose work is original, not derivative, the amateur chef with original recipes constantly popping into their head.

Game Changers imagine possibilities that others don't, and they engage others with the excitement and the vision of what is possible. Their contribution to the world is one of transformational change rather than incremental change, i.e. they see what might be rather than wanting to improve or change what is.

AS PEOPLE

Game Changers have a need for creative expression. Their creativity coincides with uncensored, seemingly free-associative thinking: they rule things in rather than ruling them out. They allow themselves to imagine, to dream. They don't feel constrained by a need to build upon what has gone before or by 'tried and tested' ways of doing things. They have a way to imagine how things could be and, when they become obsessed with an idea, how things should be.

Game Changers do not see themselves as risk takers. For them, a greater sense of loss and regret will come from not doing something rather than trying to do something. Creativity for them is, to some extent, a manifestation of their identity, of how they see themselves. Given this, being free to express themselves is vital to their sense of wellbeing.

AS LEADERS

Game Changers may often be seen as inflexible, tenacious to the point of being a 'dog with a bone'. Their single-minded nature may mean that they are not seen as open to influence and this will distort relationships for some. At their best, they will lead through the power of ideas and possibilities.

GAME CHANGERS

#1:

Recognise that some people will find your Game Changing nature unsettling at times. Change can leave people feeling inadequate and anxious as well as excited. If you want people to take your ideas seriously you will need to recognise and manage this. Give people time to digest your ideas and 'get used to them'.

#2:

Remember that what may seem very obvious to you doesn't to others. Be patient with people when you are asking them to see the world the way that you do. Develop your influence skills through reading and training. Get yourself a mentor.

#3:

Take time to build alliances, supportive relationships in the business with people who 'know where you're coming from'. These people can help you to manage the process of influence when you have a good idea.

#4:

Recognise that good Strategists can bring focus to your ideas and help you to 'sell' them by putting them into a business and commercial context.

#5:

Recognise those Play Makers around you and build a relationship with them. They can help you to get the best from your talents.

PLAY MAKER

BEING THE BEST YOU CAN BE

AT THEIR BEST

PLAY MAKERS, AT THEIR VERY BEST, INVEST IN THEIR RELATIONSHIPS AT WORK.

By definition, Play Makers value the sort of group cohesion that they believe is necessary to drive performance: 'we are all in this together'.

At their best, they are consensus builders. Their inclination is to seek harmony in groups although the skillful ones will not shy away from confrontation; they will manage conflict in such a way that it produces cohesion rather than fragmentation.

Play Making is not to be confused with learned behaviours around being socially skilled, or personal qualities such as warmth or extraversion; it is about a particular impact, not a particular personality.

AS PEOPLE

Play Makers are collegiate by nature. They enjoy being part of something that they see as 'bigger than they are'. They will often see the 'greater good' as more important than individual needs. They are more likely to 'stand up for a cause' than stand up for themselves. As a consequence, they can seem quite understated at times. For Play Makers collective achievement is more important than individual glory. Play Makers believe that once you get the relationships 'right', then things will naturally follow and will get done. They are instinctive 'people gatherers' who are happy for others to be in the spotlight. At their best, they will know what makes people tick and know how to motivate and influence them. This will often reflect a high degree of emotional intelligence.

AS LEADERS

Play Makers do not seek to dominate, they are quite the opposite from 'command-and-control' leaders. Their approach is to be involving and inclusive, to facilitate and seek consensus about the 'what' as well as the 'how'. It's not in their nature to impose their views but rather to develop a collective view. They use the language of 'we' rather than 'I' and, consistent with this, can seem quite understated at times. At their best, they are able to see how people can contribute to broader objectives. This is reflected in their GC Index profiles in the sense that they have some of all the other four proclivities within them; they can appreciate what others can bring.

PLAY MAKER

BEING THE BEST YOU CAN BE

TOP 5 TIPS

- #1: Take time to develop your most important capabilities, namely, your people skills. Keep a 'people skills' book on the go and attend courses when you can or get yourself a coach.
- #2: Take time in your week to stand back and think about those key people around you at work. Think about them as people, their capabilities, motives and agendas. Be clear about how you can engage them effectively and build productive and complementary relationships.
- #3: Recognise that there may be times when you need to be directive and assert your views as a leader rather than seeking consensus.
- #4: Make sure that you develop the most sophisticated skills for managing conflict: negotiation skills, conflict management skills.
- #5: Understand what it is that makes you influential (ask people) and build this into your approach to getting the best from people.

IMPLEMENTERS BEING THE BEST YOU CAN BE

AT THEIR BEST

IMPLEMENTERS, AT THEIR VERY BEST, GET THINGS DONE, THEY DELIVER.

Their philosophy, and practice, is one of practical, pragmatic problem solving. They will often have a reputation as a 'safe pair of hands', someone who can be relied upon to get things done in a dependable way. They are outcome focused and will get things done without being a slave to the process. In groups and teams, they will bring task-focused energy and urgency.

This could be the project manager who needs to deliver outcomes quickly for their client, it could be the tour guide ensuring her guests see as much as they can on her trip or the HR manager who just wants to make things happen.

AS PEOPLE

Implementers are, typically, driven by the satisfaction that comes from tangible achievements. Consistent with this, they will enjoy the challenge of finding ways to do things, finding solutions to practical problems and ways around obstacles. They can be innovative and flexible in the process. Their pragmatism is such that they can accept when an outcome is 'good enough', and 'fit for purpose'.

AS LEADERS

Effective Implementers, as leaders, are typically, high energy people, action and outcome focused. They will tend to 'lead by example' demonstrating resilience to setbacks. They may tend to rely upon others for ideas and broader strategic direction given that their real strength and, valued contribution, is to make things happen.

Nonetheless, effective Implementers need to be able to articulate the 'why' of action as well as the 'how'. They may also need to manage their frustration with analysis paralysis or abstract notions that don't fit with real, operational needs. Effective Implementers will have developed the skills to help others i.e. Strategists to 'test' ideas and turn them into a reality.

IMPLEMENTERS

TOP 5 TIPS

- #1: Implementers bring energy and drive to getting things done. Make sure that you focus this drive upon tasks that are the best use of your time, otherwise delegate.
- #2: Implementers make very effective ‘hands on’ coaches. Develop your coaching skills as a way of getting the best from others.
- #3: Implementers complement Strategists and Game Changers by being good ‘reality checkers’. But be mindful of challenging ideas and possibilities in a positive way that ‘doesn’t burst bubbles’. Be careful not to be seen as resistant to change in this process.
- #4: Help Strategists to operationalise ideas: make sure that you understand the commercial context when doing so.
- #5: Like Polishers, Implementers tend to be very task and outcome focused. Take time to stand back to think about your life, your career and your relationships.

POLISHERS BEING THE BEST YOU CAN BE AT THEIR BEST

POLISHERS EMBODY THE PHILOSOPHY AND PRACTICE OF CONTINUOUS IMPROVEMENT.

They seek to set the standard for excellence within their role and organisation. They can take products, processes and procedures and constantly seek to improve them. They will be able to understand and articulate the commercial, competitive advantage derived from continuous improvement. Consistent with this approach, they will value learning from review: 'what could we do better, differently?'

AS PEOPLE

Within any effective Polisher is a perfectionist nature. They derive energy and satisfaction from taking solutions and developing them to the point of perfection and excellence, maximising their potential. This could be the receptionist constantly striving to have the perfect welcome for their visitors, the branding consultant ensuring that the new product design is the best as it can be before it goes to print or the gardener striving for the perfect lawn.

When it matters most to them, they will struggle to accept 'good enough'. At an extreme, they are obsessive. Their drive for continuous improvement and their striving for excellence will reflect a determined and tenacious nature. It also reflects optimism, the view that something could be better. They will feel most challenged when they have to make a decision that a task is good enough, fit for purpose, when they see possibilities for improvement.

AS LEADERS

They will balance the challenge of 'we can do better' with the support of a 'safe to fail' culture. They will be demanding, setting high expectations for themselves and others. This focus on stretching others will require a sophisticated skill set to do it well. At best, they will inspire people to perform to their very best, at worst, their demanding nature may inhibit others. Their drive can be relentless.

POLISHERS

TOP 5 TIPS

- #1: Recognise that some people will find your need for perfection inhibiting at times. At an extreme, people around you may feel that they can never be good enough. Be aware when this may be happening, as it can lead to apathy in those around you.
- #2: Use your need to perfect things as a strength in setting quality control, ensuring that things are the best they can be for you and those around you.
- #3: Work on engaging people around you as to the positive outcomes that will be derived from taking something from “fit for purpose” to ‘best in class’. Demonstrate where the discretionary effort is worth the prize at the end. Motivating teams around this will be a strong leadership trait for you when done well. Work with Playmakers to help develop the combination of task and people focused leadership.
- #4: Understand when to ‘let go’, everything cannot be perfect every time. Work on deciphering which tasks require perfection and which ones will fulfil the commercial objectives by being merely excellent or even still simply just fit for purpose. Implementers will help you rationalise this in your mind and Playmakers will help you delegate.
- #5: Like Implementers, Polishers tend to be very task and outcome focused. Take time to stand back to think about your life, your career and your relationships.
